The School
Systems
I Want Us to Build...

...redefine success to encompass more than just a narrow set of metrics & instead root it in how well we have realized the potential to make people, individually and collectively, more free.

...recognize, affirm, and amplify all the languages, cultures, and identities of our community & make multicultural and multilingual perspectives integral to policy and practice across all programs.

...are designed for learning as an experiential, meaningful, and memorable act--framed by exuberant expectations, characterized by joy, challenge, agency and creativity, and supported by thoughtful scaffolding.

...support teaching that begins with developing deep knowledge of students, honors all facets of students' identities, responds nimbly to students with deliberate instructional supports toward worthy learning goals .

...are built on a foundation of commitment to inclusion, equity and justice & actively and observably center humanity, dignity, empathy, community.
